Way Foreword

It is my immense pleasure to present the Seventeenth Volume of the Education Management Information System (EMIS): Report on Higher Education Nepal 2024/25 (2081/82 B.S.). This publication serves as an important source of reliable and comprehensive information to support evidence-based policy formulation, planning, monitoring, and decision-making in Nepal's higher education sector.

The Higher Education Management Information System (HEMIS) Report for the fiscal year 2081/82 B.S. (2024/25 A.D.), published by the University Grants Commission (UGC), provides a comprehensive statistical profile of higher education in Nepal. It presents key data and trends for universities, provincial universities, medical academies, and their constituent, affiliated, community, and private campuses. The report is intended to serve policymakers, university authorities, researchers, development partners, students, and other stakeholders within Nepal and abroad.

The report provides detailed information on higher education institutions, student enrollment, Gender Parity Index (GPI), Gross Enrollment Ratio (GER), graduation and pass rates, government funding, and major trends observed over the past several years. It also presents a comprehensive overview of the structure and performance of Nepal's higher education system, enabling stakeholders to assess progress, identify emerging challenges, and formulate appropriate policy responses.

The analysis shows that higher education institutions with enrolled students are predominantly concentrated in the hilly region, followed by the Terai and mountain regions. Constituent campuses continue to accommodate the largest share of student enrollment, while Bagmati Province records the highest number of enrolled students. Female students now outnumber male students across the higher education system, reflecting continued progress toward gender equity. The Management faculty remains the largest academic discipline in terms of student enrollment. Nepal's Gross Enrollment Ratio (GER) in higher education has reached 24.31 percent, while the Gender Parity Index (GPI) stands at 1.30, indicating notable progress in expanding access to higher education, particularly for women.

The report further reveals significant variations in campus size. While 481 campuses enroll fewer than 100 students, 57 campuses have enrollments exceeding 2,000 students. Overall enrollment has continued to increase steadily, accompanied by rising female participation, growing numbers of graduates, and the continued expansion of higher education institutions. During the reporting year, 721,246 students were enrolled in Nepal's national higher education institutions.

The University Grants Commission extends its sincere appreciation to all universities, medical academies, and higher education institutions for their invaluable cooperation in providing the data used in this report. We also acknowledge the continued support and collaboration of the Ministry of Education and Sports, the Ministry of Finance, the National Planning Commission, the National Statistics Office, and other concerned agencies whose contributions have strengthened the quality and credibility of this publication.

Finally, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all individuals who contributed to the preparation and publication of this report. Their dedication, professionalism, and commitment have been instrumental in producing this important national publication. I would especially like to acknowledge the outstanding contribution of Mr. Krishna Hari Prajapati, Assistant Director, EMIS/ICT Unit, University Grants Commission, whose tireless efforts played a pivotal role in the successful preparation of this report. I also extend my sincere appreciation to all UGC staff members who contributed to the publication of this volume.

I am confident that this report will serve as a valuable reference for policymakers, higher education institutions, researchers, development partners, and all those working toward strengthening the quality, equity, relevance, and sustainability of higher education in Nepal.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The seventeenth edition of the Annual UGC EMIS Report (B.S. 2081/082) presents a comprehensive overview of the status of higher education in Nepal for the academic year 2081/082. In this reporting year, Nepal hosts a total of 15 federal universities, 6 provisional universities, 6 medical academies and two provincial medical academies. Of these, 21 are recognized as full universities (Federal and Provincial), including: Tribhuvan University (TU), Nepal Sanskrit University (NSU), Kathmandu University (KU), Purbanchal University (PU), Pokhara University (PoK.U), Lumbini Buddhist University (LBU), Agriculture and Forestry University (AFU), Far-Western University (FWU), Mid-West University (MU), Nepal Open University (NOU), Rajarshi Janak University (RJU), Madan Bhandari University of Science and Technology (MBUST), Vidushi Yogmaya Himalayan Ayurveda University (VYHAU), University of Nepal (UoN) and Martyr Dasharath Chand University of Health Science (MDCUHS) as federal universities and Manmohan Technical University (MTU), Gandaki University (GU), Madhesh Agriculture University (MAU), Madhesh University (M.U), Lumbini Technical University (LTU) and Bagmati University (BU) as provincial Universities. In addition, there are six federal medical academies, namely: B.P. Koirala Institute of Health Sciences (BPKIHS), National Academy of Medical Sciences (NAMS), Patan Academy of Health Sciences (PAHS), Karnali Academy of Health Sciences (KAHS), Rapti Academy of Health Sciences (RAHS), Pokhara Academy of Health Sciences (PokAHS), and Madan Bhandari Academy of Health Sciences (MBAHS) and Madhesh Institute of Health Sciences (MIHS) have been established as provincial deemed universities (academies) for the first time in Nepal.

Universities and Medical Academics with their constituent and affiliated campuses, are actively delivering higher education programs across various faculties and disciplines. Furthermore, 58 colleges affiliated with foreign universities operate in Nepal, offering programs at various academic levels.

In the academic year 2024/25, there are a total of 1,513 higher education institutions (HEIs) in Nepal. Of these, 166 (10.97%) are constituent campuses, 592 (39.13 %) are community campuses, and 755 (49.90%) are privately managed campuses. TU alone accounts for 1,045 campuses, including 62 constituent campuses and 983 affiliated campuses, reflecting its dominant role in the higher education system.

From a geographical perspective, the distribution of campuses indicates that 58.92% (892 campuses) are located in the Hill region, 36.46% (552 campuses) in the Terai region, and 4.62% (70 campuses) in the Mountain region.

At the provincial level, the highest concentration of campuses is found in Bagmati Province, which hosts 42.83% (648 campuses). This is followed by Koshi Province with 14.28% (216 campuses), Lumbini Province with 12.89% (195 campuses), Gandaki Province with 10.44% (158 campuses), Madhesh Province with 9.38% (142 campuses), Sudurpashchim Province with 6.28% (95 campuses), and Karnali Province with 3.90% (59 campuses).

Enrollment in Higher Education

In the academic year 2024/025, a total of 721,246 students were enrolled in HEIs across Nepal. Among the universities, TU holds a dominant position, enrolling 531,581 students, which constitutes 73.7 percent of the total student population. The second-largest share of enrollment is observed at PU and PoK.U, with 46,184 students (6.40%) and 35,754 students (4.96%), respectively. KU accounts for 22,858 students (3.17%), while FWU enrolls 18,931 students (2.62%). Other universities contribute relatively smaller shares to total enrollment. AFU enrolls 4,015 students (0.56%), and NSU accounts for 4,754 students (0.66%). Emerging and specialized institutions such as MU with 12,194 students (1.69%) and NOU with 1,970 students (0.27%) demonstrate modest but growing contributions. Institutions such as MBUST, LTU, and MAU report minimal enrollment with negligible shares. Medical and health science academies collectively account for a small share of total enrollment, reflecting their specialized nature. Among them, BPKIHS has the highest enrollment with 1,809 students (0.25%), followed by PAHS with 264 students (0.04%), and KAHS with 450 students (0.06%).

The gender distribution of student enrollment indicates a higher participation of females in higher education. Of the total enrollment of 721,246 students, 405,217 (56.18%) are female, while 316,029 students (43.82%) are male. Among the faculties, Management has the highest enrollment with 323,428 students (44.84%), where female students (188,866) significantly outnumber male students (134,562). Similarly, Education, the second-largest faculty with 158,976 students (22.04%), also shows a strong female majority (112,336 females compared to 46,640 males). In technical disciplines, Science and Technology (S&T) records the highest enrollment with 66,293 students (9.19%), and shows a slight male dominance (42,244 males vs. 24,049 females). Engineering has 40,615 students (5.63%) with a pronounced male majority (30,163 males vs. 10,452 females). In contrast, Medicine enrolls 32,493 students (4.51%), where female students form the majority (19,507 females vs. 12,986 males). Smaller faculties such as Forestry (1,881 students, 0.26%), Buddhist Studies (534 students, 0.07%), and Sanskrit (2,915 students, 0.40%) contribute marginally to total enrollment. The gender distribution in Forestry and Buddhist Studies is relatively balanced, whereas in Sanskrit it is male-dominated.

The distribution of student enrollment across three ecological belts highlights significant regional disparities. The Hill region accounts for the largest share, with 404,631 students (56.10%), underscoring its central role in higher education. The Terai region follows with 298,635 students (41.41%), demonstrating substantial participation in higher education. In contrast, the Mountain region records the lowest enrollment, with only 17,980 students (2.49%), indicating limited access to higher education institutions. Overall, the Hill and Terai regions account for more than 97 percent of total student enrollment, reflecting a highly uneven distribution of higher education opportunities in Nepal.

Share of Girls in HE Enrollment

The analysis of gender participation in higher education indicates that girls constitute a majority of the student population in Nepal's universities. Out of the total 721,246 students, girls account for 56.18 percent, reflecting a positive trend toward gender parity and increased female participation in higher education. Across universities, the highest proportion of girls' enrollment is observed in health and specialized institutions. NAMS records the highest share, with 68.78 percent girls, followed closely by PAHS at 66.67 percent, and PoKAHS at 62.22 percent. These figures highlight a strong female presence in health-related disciplines. Similarly, FWU shows a notable proportion of girls' enrollment at 59.44 percent. TU, the largest university in terms of enrollment with 531,581 students, reports a 59.7 percent female enrollment, indicating that female participation remains high even in large, comprehensive institutions. The distribution of girls' students across different levels of higher education reveals varying patterns. At the bachelor's level, girls account for 68.39 percent of total enrollment, demonstrating strong participation and near gender parity. However, at the master's level, the proportion of girls declines to 46.5 percent, indicating a drop in female participation in advanced studies. This suggests the need for targeted interventions to improve the retention and progression of female students into higher levels of education.

Participation by girls varies significantly across academic faculties. The highest representation is observed in the Education faculty, where girls account for 70.66 percent of total enrollment, followed by Medicine (60.03%) and Management (58.4%), indicating strong female engagement in these fields. The Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS) faculty also demonstrates notable female participation, with 50.54 percent of students being girls.

In contrast, technical and traditional disciplines show comparatively lower female representation. Engineering records only 25.73 percent of girls' enrollment, while Science and Technology have 36.28 percent, and Sanskrit shows the lowest participation at 17.15 percent. These disparities highlight the persistent gender gap in STEM and traditional fields, underscoring the need for policies and initiatives to promote girls' participation in these areas.

Gender Parity Index (GPI)

Female students outnumber male students in higher education enrollment in Nepal. Of the total student population, 405,217 are females, compared to 316,029 males, indicating a higher level of female participation. The overall GPI is 1.30, indicating that for every male student enrolled, there are 1.30 female students.

Pass Percentage

The highest pass rate is recorded at PAHS and MBUST, achieving a perfect 100 percent, followed by the NAMS with 98 percent, and RAHS with 95.95 percent. These results indicate exceptionally strong academic outcomes, particularly among medical and health science institutions. LBU also demonstrates a high pass rate of 85.99 percent, reflecting strong academic performance.

In contrast, some universities report considerably lower pass rates. FWU records a pass rate of 39.87 percent, while TU reports 47.25 percent, suggesting potential challenges in academic outcomes and student progression. Other institutions exhibit moderate performance levels. PoK.U records a pass rate of 56.66 percent, NSU 53.25 percent, and MU 50.17 percent. Meanwhile, KU with 67.72 percent and AFU with 66.75 percent demonstrate comparatively better performance among non-medical institutions.

Graduates

A total of 116,112 graduates were produced across universities in Nepal. TU accounts for the largest share, with 90,618 graduates, contributing 78.04 percent of the total graduate output. This highlights TU's dominant role in the higher education system. The second-largest contributors are PU with 8,149 graduates (7.02%) and PoK.U with 7,880 graduates (6.79%). Moderate contribution is observed from KU accounting for 3.07 percent, followed by FWU with 1.32 percent of the total graduates. Other institutions, including AFU, BPKIHS, and NAMS, each contribute less than 1 percent, reflecting their relatively smaller scale and specialized nature. The smallest shares are reported by KAHS with 0.01 percent and RJU with 0.06 percent. Overall, the distribution of graduates clearly demonstrates TU's overwhelming dominance in graduate output, with other universities contributing comparatively smaller shares.

Gross Enrollment Ratio (GER)

The total student enrollment in higher education institutions across Nepal is 721,246 comprising 316,029 male students and 405,217 female students. The population aged 18–22 years—the official age group for higher education stands at 2,966,404, including 1,494,523 males and 1,471,881 females. Based on this population, the GER for higher education is estimated at 24.31 percent, incorporating both domestic higher education institutions and foreign-affiliated campuses. A gender-disaggregated analysis shows that the GER for females is higher at 27.53 percent, compared to 21.15 percent for males. This indicates that a greater proportion of females, in the specified age group, are accessing higher education in Nepal.

Public Financing

The total higher education budget is 214567 thousand which is 10.53 % of the total education budget and 1.09% of the national budget. Higher education financing to universities share 32.16% GDP as compare to National budget whereas 1.09 % share to Grants to Higher Education. Grants for Higher Education as shares of GDP represent 0.035% and national budget 10.53%. Net Public Expenditure per student in higher education is Rs 29,749 where per student subsidy for constituent and community campuses are Rs 67,678 and Rs 7,526 respectively.

Teachers

In the fiscal year 2024/025, the total number of teaching staff across constituent campuses of universities in Nepal was 15,401. Among them, 1,413 were professors, 3,100 were readers, 7,101 were lecturers, 890 were assistant lecturers, and 506 were instructors. This distribution indicates that the majority of the academic workforce comprises lecturers, while senior academic positions such as professors and readers account for a smaller share, reflecting the hierarchical structure of teaching staff within Nepalese higher education institutions.

Student-Teacher Ratios

Analysis of student-teacher ratios across Nepalese universities highlights significant variations in teaching resources. TU leads in enrollment with 187,762 students and 7,938 teaching staff, resulting in a moderate student-teacher ratio of 24:1. FWU and KU follow with 17,992 and 13,203 students, respectively. However, FWU reports a higher ratio of 37:1, indicating relatively limited teacher availability, compared to KU's 23:1.

Medical-focused academies offer exceptionally favorable student-teacher ratios, reflecting their emphasis on personalized intensive training. Institutions such as PAHS, NAMS, PoKAHS and MIHS maintain a 1:1 ratio, ensuring close academic supervision. In contrast, MU records the highest student-teacher ratio of 40:1, highlighting potential challenges in providing adequate teaching resources and personalized attention to students.

Campus Enrollment Range

Of Nepal's higher education campuses, 481 (31.71% of the total) have enrollments of 100 or fewer students, reflecting a high prevalence of small institutions, particularly among community and private campuses. In contrast, constituent campuses exhibit greater diversity in size, with several significantly larger institutions. Notably, two constituent campuses have enrollments exceeding 10,000 students, demonstrating the scale variation between different types of higher education institutions.

SECTION-I

INTRODUCTION

Reliable information on the status of higher education is vital to supporting policymakers, researchers, higher education leaders, institutional planners, and other stakeholders in making informed decisions and advancing the development of the higher education sector.

Higher education in Nepal includes bachelor's, postgraduate diploma (PGD), master's, MPhil, and PhD programs. To provide a clear and comprehensive picture, the University Grants Commission (UGC) publishes an annual Education Management Information System (EMIS) report that presents disaggregated reliable data on higher education.

This is the seventeenth edition of the EMIS report on higher education. Its main purpose is to provide accurate, timely, and reliable information to all stakeholders. The report covers a wide range of topics, including higher education institutions, student enrollment, gross enrollment rates (GER), pass rates, gender parity index (GPI), graduates, teaching staff, public financing, academic programs, and trend analysis.

1.1 Organization of the Report

The report consists of twelve sections. The first section provides an introduction, the second presents background information on universities, their campuses, and their distribution of the campuses across provinces, while the third gives university-wise information on enrollment status, campus type, location, and programs levels.

Section four provides data on gender parity index (GPI). Section five provides information on the universities' pass rates. Section six presents the information distribution of graduates by university. Section seven presents information on the gross enrollment ratio (GER).

Section eight presents information on the government financing in higher education. Information on teachers is presented in section nine. Section ten lists the Student/Teacher Ratio (STR) in the constituent campuses of universities. Section eleven provides the student enrollment by campus type. The twelfth section analyses the trends of total campuses, enrollment, graduates, and public financing.

The annexure follows the main text of the report. It includes seven annexes. Annex I provides definitions of the concepts and terminology used in the report. The second one is a brief description of the higher education system in Nepal, and the third annex presents brief descriptions of the universities and academies. Annex four contains information about report preparation. Annex five contains detailed enrollment information for campuses across various faculties, programs and levels. The remaining two annexes sixth and seventh present education management information system (EMIS) indicators and a brief introduction of the UGC.

1.2 Methodology

This report is prepared with contributions from the concerned universities through their Office of the Controller of Examination (OCE), examination division/section and their Dean's Offices, university central and the National Statistics Office (NSO).

Data Collection

Data is collected from the OCE's of universities and their dean's offices using email, phone calls, and direct visits to the OCEs and Dean's offices. Data is collected in a spread sheet format.

Data Processing

The UGC has created a simple database system to store and manage data for the universities' campuses. The collected data were preprocessed and transformed to the format required by the database. The system is carefully maintained to ensure control over the collected data, their coding, entry and verification.

Scope and Limitations

The data collection process is still a very time-consuming process, as not all universities have maintained a proper computerized information system.

Data in Maps

Four maps are developed for the pictorial representation of the distribution of campuses, and students across provinces.

UNIVERSITIES AND CAMPUSES

Nepal's higher education system comprises central, provincial universities and medical academies offering higher education across diverse disciplines through their constituent and affiliated (Community and Private) campuses at the Bachelor's, Master's, MPhil, PGD and PhD levels of study.

Note: Due to overlapping academic semesters and academic cycles in Nepal's higher education systems, students enrolled during overlapping periods have been excluded from the reported enrollment figures. To avoid double counting, including these overlapping enrollments would have pushed the total number of students in higher education for the academic year 2024/25 beyond 750,000.

Table 2.1 provides an overview of higher education institutions in Nepal for the fiscal year /academic year 2081/082 (2024/25), detailing the number of students, campuses, graduates, and teachers across various universities and medical academies. The universities include Tribhuvan University (TU), Nepal Sanskrit University (NSU), Kathmandu University (KU), Purbanchal University (PU), Pokhara University (PokU), Lumbini Buddhist University (LBU), Nepal Open University (NOU), Agriculture and Forestry University (AFU), Mid-West University (MU), Far-Western University (FWU), , Rajarshi Janak University (RJU), Madan Bhandaru University of Science and Technology (MBUST), Vidushi Yogmaya Himalayan Ayurveda University (VYHAU), University of Nepal (UoN) and the recently established Martyr Dasharath Chand University of Health Science (MDCUHS). The provincial universities include Gandaki University (GU), Lumbini Technical University (LTU), Madesh Agriculture University (MAU), Manmohan Technical University (MTU), Madhesh University (M.U), and most recently added Bagmati University (BU). Additionally, there are eight medical academies: the National Academy of Medical Sciences (NAMS), B.P. Koirala Institute of Health Sciences (BPKIHS), Patan Academy of Health Sciences (PAHS), Karnali Academy of Health Sciences (KAHS), Pokhara Academy of Health Sciences (PokAHS), Rapti Academy of Health Sciences (RAHS), Madan Bhandari Academy of Health Sciences (MBAHS) and Madhesh Institute of Health Science (MIHS).

TU leads with the highest enrollment of 531,581 students, representing 73.70% of the total, and has the largest number of campuses (1045). Provincial universities like MAU, LTU, and GU have significantly smaller enrollments, with much lower shares of the total student population. Medical academics such as NAMS and BPKIHS focus on health-related education, with NAMS enrolling 551 students and BPKIHS enrolling 1,809. The total enrollment across all institutions is 721,246 students, with 116,212 graduates and 15,401 teachers. In total, there are 29 universities/academies and 58 foreign university affiliated institutions with 1,513 campuses across constituent, private, and community campus types, reflecting Nepal's diverse higher education system.

The figure 2.1 illustrate the distribution of campuses across universities. The university with the highest percentage of campuses is TU (69.07%), followed by PU (9.32%). Other universities have significantly smaller percentages, with most having less than 1% of the total campuses. Some universities, like BPKIHS, GU, and BYAHU, each have only 0.07% of the campuses. Foreign university affiliated Institutions have 3.83%. This indicates that TU and PU dominate the campus distribution, while the other institutions have minimal presence.

Note *: Multiple campuses have more than one program at more than one level: therefore, the total number of campuses by level of programs will be greater than the actual number of 1 campus

Table 2.2 illustrates the distribution of campuses across various universities at different educational levels. TU stands out with the highest number of campuses, particularly in Bachelor's and Master's programs, totaling 1,037 and 296 respectively. Other universities like PU, POKU, and KU also have a notable number of campuses, especially at the Bachelor's and Master's levels, though their numbers are much smaller than TU's. A significant portion of other universities have only a few campuses, mostly offering Bachelor's and Master's degrees, with minimal representation at advanced levels such as MPhil, PGD, and PhD. In total, there are 1,472 Bachelor's campuses, 512 Master's campuses, and smaller numbers in MPhil (9), PGD (15), MPhil/PhD (2) and PhD (16).

Table 2.3 shows that TU has the highest number of campuses across most faculties, especially in Education, Management, and HSS. Other universities like PU and POKU have notable numbers in Engineering and Management, though their campus numbers are much smaller. Many smaller universities, such as FWU, MU, and KU, have limited campus presence in specific faculties like Education, Engineering, and Management. Some universities like NSU focus more on faculties like Sanskrit and Education, with minimal representation in other areas. Overall, TU leads in campus distribution, while other institutions show more specialized or focused presence.

Constituent	166	10.97
Community	592	39.13
Private	755	49.90
Total	1513	100

Table 2.4 shows the distribution of HEIs by campus type. Private campuses make up the largest share, with 755 campuses, accounting for 49.90% of the total. Community campuses follow closely with 592 campuses, representing 39.13% of the total. Constituent campuses have the smallest share, with 166 campuses, accounting for 10.97 %. In total, there are 1,513 campuses across all types.

Total	216	142	648	158	195	59	95	1513

Table 2.5 shows that Bagmati has the highest number of campuses, with Private campuses (423) making up the majority. Other provinces like Lumbini and Koshi have a significant number of community campuses, while Madhesh shows a higher proportion of Private campuses. Karnali and Sudurpashchim have fewer campuses overall, with community campuses being the most common type. In general, private campuses are most prominent in Bagmati, while community campuses are more evenly distributed across other provinces.

Figure 2.3 outlines the distribution of campuses across Nepal's provinces as percentages. Bagmati Province has the highest concentration of campuses, accounting for 42.83 % of the total, significantly surpassing all other provinces. Koshi and Lumbini follow with 14.28% and 12.89%, respectively. Gandaki and Madhesh contribute moderately with shares of 10.44% and 9.39%, while Sudurpashchim and Karnali have the smallest shares, accounting for 6.28% and 3.90%, respectively. This indicates a considerable regional disparity, with Bagmati Province hosting the largest proportion of campuses.

Table 2.6 illustrates the distribution of campuses for each university across the seven provinces. TU dominates with 1,045 campuses, having the largest presence in Bagmati (430) and significant numbers in Koshi (153) and Lumbini (142). PU follows with 141 campuses, primarily in Bagmati (72) and Koshi (39). Other universities, such as POKU, KU, and NSU have much smaller distributions, with campuses concentrated in specific provinces such as Bagmati and Gandaki. Smaller universities like FWU are limited to one or two provinces, such as Sudurpashchim for FWU (38 campuses). Overall, Bagmati has the highest concentration of campuses (648), while provinces like Karnali (59) and Sudurpashchim (95) have the least representation.

Table 2.7 shows the distribution of campuses across various faculties by province. Bagmati leads in most faculties, with a significant concentration in Management (441), Education (145), and HSS (227). Lumbini also has notable numbers in Education (95) and Management (140). Koshi and Gandaki have strong presences in Education (102 and 79, respectively) and in Management (136 and 105 respectively). Madhesh has a balanced presence in Education (70) and Management (97), while Sudurpashchim is notable in Education (69) and HSS (35). Karnali has the lowest overall numbers, with Education (38) and Management (27) being the primary faculties. Overall, Education and Management dominate across all provinces, while other faculties, such as Forestry and Sanskrit are sparsely represented.

Table 2.8 illustrates the distribution of campuses by educational levels across provinces. Bagmati leads in all categories, with 620 Bachelor's campuses, 261 Master's, and the highest numbers of MPhil (6), PGD (9), and PhD (10) campuses. Koshi and Lumbini follow, with 213 and 191 Bachelor's campuses, respectively, and smaller numbers at higher levels. Gandaki, Madhesh, Karnali, and Sudurpashchim have fewer campuses overall, with Bachelor's campuses being dominant in all provinces. The MPhil, PGD, and PhD levels are limited, with only Bagmati showing significant numbers. This highlights a concentration of higher-level education opportunities in Bagmati.

Table 2.9 Number of campuses in the ecological belts

Table 2.9 highlights the distribution of campuses across Nepal's ecological belts. The Hill region hosts the majority of campuses, with 892 campuses, accounting for 58.92% of the total. The Terai region follows, with 552 campuses, representing 36.46%. The Mountain region has the fewest campuses, with 70, accounting for only 4.62%. This indicates a significant concentration of educational institutions in the Hill and Terai regions, with limited accessibility in the Mountain belt.

Table 2.10 highlights the distribution of campuses across Nepal's Municipal Types. The Municipality hosts the majority of campuses, with 667 campuses, accounting for 44.03% of the total. The Metropolitan follows, with 508 campuses, representing 33.53%. The Rural Municipality follows, with 202 campuses, representing 13.33%. The Sub Metropolitan has the fewest campuses, with 138, making up only 9.11%. This indicates a significant concentration of educational institutions in the Metropolitan and Municipalities, with limited accessibility in the Sub-Metropolitan and Rural Municipalities.

SECTION-3

ENROLLMENT IN HIGHER EDUCATION

This section presents information about the number of students enrolled in universities, faculties, and institutes, the level of programs offered, the types of campuses, provinces and ecological belts. In the year 2024/025, 721,246 students are enrolled at 1,513 campuses of seventeen universities, eight medical academies and 58 foreign university affiliated institutions.

Table 3.1 presents data on student enrollment by gender across Federal Universities, Provincial Universities, Medical Academies and foreign university affiliated institutions. In total, 721,246 students enrolled, with 316,029 males and 405,217 females. Federal Universities account for the largest share of enrollments at 94.5%, with TU alone comprising 73.70% of the total enrollment (531,581 students). The next largest institutions are PU and POKU, with 6.40% and 4.96% shares, respectively. Foreign university affiliated institutions comprise 4.78% of the total enrollment. The other Federal Universities, such as Kathmandu KU, FWU, and MU, each contribute smaller shares ranging from 3.17% to 1.69%.

The remaining Federal universities each have less than 1% of the total enrollment. Provincial Universities have minimal representation, with only 1364 students (0.19% of total enrollment), while medical academies collectively account for 0.57% of total enrollment. Medical academies enroll 3,832 students, accounting for 0.53% of the total. BPKIHS has the largest share among the medical academies, with 1,809 students (0.25% of the total). Other academies, such as MBAHS and NAMS, also contribute smaller percentages of the total enrollment.

Figure 3.1 illustrates the percentage share of student enrollment across various universities and medical academies. TU has the highest student enrollment, with around 73.7 % of total students. Smaller shares are held by PU and POKU at 6.40% and 4.96%, respectively. The remaining Federal Universities, Provincial Universities, and Medical Academies make relatively minor contributions, with each typically below 1% of total enrollment, except for a few institutions, such as BPKIHS, which stands out slightly among the medical academies.

Table 3.2 Gender-wise student enrollment in three different types of campuses.

Table 3.2 shows gender-wise student enrollment across four campus types: community, Constituent and Private. Constituent campuses have the highest enrollment, with 255,191 students (35.38% of the total), closely followed by community campuses with 226,713 students (31.43%), private campuses with 239,342 students. Female enrollment is higher at community and constituent campuses.

Figure 3.2 shows the distribution of student enrollment across different campus types. Constituent campuses have the largest share, accounting for 35.38% of total enrollment. Private campuses follow with 33.18%, and Community campuses account for 31.43%. This distribution reflects a relatively even split among the four campus types, with constituent campuses holding a slight lead.

Table 3.3 provides a gender-wise breakdown of student enrollment across Nepal's three ecological belts: Hill, Mountain, and the Terai. The Hill region accounts for the highest number of students, with 404,631 students (56.10%), comprising 188,342 males and 216,289 females. The Terai region follows, enrolling 298,635 students (41.41%), where female students (177,358) outnumber males (121,277). In contrast, the Mountain region has the smallest enrollment, with just 17,980 students (2.49%), including 6,410 males and 11,570 females. Overall, female students dominate across all three ecological belts, accounting for 56.18 % of the total enrollment, compared to 43.82% for males.

Table 3.4 presents gender-wise student enrollment across technical and non-technical faculties, along with their percentage share. Among technical faculties, Science and Technology (S&T) has the highest enrollment with 66,293 students (9.19%), followed by Engineering (40,615 students, 5.63%) and Medicine (32,493 students, 4.51%). Faculties like Agriculture (8,214 students, 1.14%) and Forestry (1,881 students, 0.26%) have the lowest enrollments in this category. Male students dominate in fields such as Engineering and S&T, while females are more prevalent in Medicine and Agriculture.

In non-technical faculties, Management has the largest enrollment with 323,428 students (44.84%), followed by Education (158,976 students, 22.04%) and Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS) (76,552 students, 10.61%). Smaller faculties, such as Buddhist Studies (534 students, 0.07%) and Sanskrit (2,915 students, 0.40%), have the lowest enrollments. Female students dominate in fields such as Education, Law and Management, while male students are more prominent in HSS and Buddhist Studies. Overall, non-technical faculties attract the majority of students, with Management contributing nearly half (44.84%) of total enrollment.

This data highlights gender disparities across disciplines, females dominate non-technical faculties such as Management, Education, and Medicine, whereas males are more prevalent in technical fields such as Engineering, S&T, and Sanskrit.

Table 3.5 shows gender-wise enrollment across various academic levels, highlighting the distribution of students in Bachelor's, Master's, MPhil, MPhil/PhD, PGD, and PhD programs. The Bachelor's program has the largest enrollments, with 634,556 students (87.98%), of whom 268,999 are male and 365,557 are female. The Master's program follows with 82,328 students (11.41%), nearly equally distributed between males (44,041) and females (38,287).

Enrollment in higher-level programs is significantly lower. The MPhil program has only 1,480 students (0.21%), while the PhD program enrolls 1,396 students (0.19%), with males substantially outnumbering females. The PGD program enrolls 1,055 students (0.15%) and MPhil/PhD accounts for the smallest share, with just 431 students (0.06%).

Table 3.6 highlights student enrollment by program level (Bachelor, Master, MPhil, PGD, MPhil/PhD and PhD) and campus type (community, constituent and Private). Bachelor's programs dominate with 634,556 students, distributed across Community (210,115), Constituent (207,066), private campuses (217,475). Among these, females outnumber males significantly, especially in community, private and constituent campuses. Master's programs, comprising 82,328 students, are primarily concentrated in Constituent campuses, while Community and Private Campuses contribute smaller numbers. Advanced programs like MPhil, PGD, MPhil/PhD and PhD show limited enrollment, exclusively on the Constituent and Private Campuses, with PhD programs enrolling 1,048 males and 348 females, indicating male dominance at the higher levels. Overall, the data demonstrates that Bachelor's programs and female students hold the largest share across campus types and levels.

The data presents student enrollment at different program levels across universities. Bachelor's programs dominate with 634,556 students, representing 87.98% of total enrollment. TU has the highest enrollment of 473,469 Bachelor's students, followed by PU with 38,454 and POKU with 32,770. Master's programs have 82,328 students, with TU contributing the majority (55,952). Advanced research levels such as MPhil, MPhil/PhD and PhD have much smaller enrollments of 1,480, 431 and 1,396 respectively, with TU again hosting most of these students. Some universities, such as KU, also contribute significantly to advanced programs, enrolling 737 MPhil and 385 PhD students. Other universities and academies, such as BPKIHS, MBAHS, and NAMS, focus on specific areas, such as health sciences, and enroll comparatively fewer students.

Table 3.8 shows the distribution of student enrollment across faculties and institutes within universities. TU dominates, enrolling 531,581 students across a wide range of faculties, with the largest enrollments in Management (262,235), Education (135,640), and Humanities and Social Sciences (64,166). PU follows, with 46,184 students primarily in Management (17,863), Medicine (2,873), and Engineering (6,869). POKU primarily focuses on Management (18,734), Engineering (11,652), and Medicine (2,160), enrolling 35,754 students. KU has a notable presence in Medicine (11,692) and Engineering (2,555), with a total of 22,858 students. Smaller universities and institutes cater to specialized faculties. For example, AFU focuses entirely on Agriculture and Forestry (4,015 students), while BPKIHS and NAMS focus exclusively on Medicine, with 1,809 and 551 students, respectively. Overall, the largest enrollments are in Management (323,428), followed by Education (158,976), reflecting the popularity of these fields among students. Other fields such as Agriculture (8,214) and Forestry (1,881) have relatively low enrollment.

Table 3.9 details student enrollment across various faculties/institutes by campus type (community, constituent and private). Management has the highest enrollment overall (323,428), distributed as 106,736 in Community, 96,737 in Constituent, and 119,955 in Private campuses. Education follows with 158,976 students, primarily concentrated in Community campuses (96,932).

Science and Technology (S&T) and Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS) are also prominent, with 66,293 and 76,552 students, respectively, spread across all campus types. Technical fields like Engineering (40,615) and Medicine (32,493) show significant enrollments, especially in private campuses.

Smaller faculties, such as Forestry (1,881) and Sanskrit (2,915), have limited representation across campuses. Constituent campuses dominate in Agriculture, Law, and Forestry, while Private campuses lead in technical fields like Engineering and Medicine. Community campuses contribute substantially to traditional fields like Education and Management.

Table 3.10 presents the gender-wise student enrollment data across various provinces. The total enrollment across all provinces is 721,246 students, with males 316,029 and females 405,217. The Bagmati province has the highest enrollment, with 160,760 male students and 162,865 female students, representing 44.87% of the total student population. The province with the second-highest number of students is Koshi, with 37,110 males and 57,001 females, making up 13.05% of the total. Other provinces, like Gandaki (7.55%), Karnali (4.07%), Lumbini (12.95%), Madhesh (10.76%), and Sudurpashchim (6.74%) have lower enrollments, with female students outnumbering males in most regions.

Table 3.11 provides a breakdown of student enrollment by faculty across various provinces. The data shows the total number of students enrolled in each of the seven provinces' faculties: Bagmati, Gandaki, Karnali, Koshi, Lumbini, Madhesh, and Sudurpashchim. The faculty with the highest enrollment is Management, with 323,428 students across all provinces. The majority of these students are from Bagmati (145,072) and Lumbini (42,911), while other provinces, such as Madhesh (44,212) and Koshi (41,370) also show significant numbers.

The Education faculty has 158,976 students, with Lumbini (30,412) and Bagmati (26,760) having the largest enrollments. Science & Technology (S&T) and Medicine also account for substantial student populations. S&T enrolls 66,293 students, with Bagmati having the largest share (44,285), while Medicine enrolls 32,493 students, predominantly in Bagmati (18,873). The Engineering and Law faculties also have notable enrollments: Engineering, 40,615; Law 9,345.

On the other hand, faculties like Buddhist Studies, Forestry, and Sanskrit have relatively smaller enrollments, with Buddhist Studies recording 534 students and Sanskrit 2,915.

In terms of provincial enrollment, Bagmati leads with 323,625 students, followed by Koshi with 94,111 students. Other provinces such as Lumbini (93,398) and Madhesh (77,627) also show significant student populations, while Karnali and Gandaki have the smallest totals. In summary, the data reveals the distribution of students across various faculties and provinces, highlighting the dominance of Management, Education, and S&T faculties, with Bagmati province leading in overall enrollment.

Table 3.12 shows student enrollment by academic level across seven provinces. The majority of students are at the Bachelor's level, with Bagmati leading at 272,106 students, followed by Lumbini and Koshi. At the Master's level, Bagmati also has the largest enrollment, with 47,658 students. MPhil, MPhil/PhD, and PhD enrollments are much smaller, with Bagmati having the highest in both, particularly in PhD (1,240 students). The Postgraduate Diploma (PGD) level has a small total of 868 students. Overall, Bagmati consistently has the highest enrollment across all levels, particularly at the Bachelor's level.

Table 3.13 outlines student enrollment by province and university, showing the distribution across various institutions. The TU has the highest enrollment, with 531,581 students, primarily in Bagmati (223,861) and Lumbini (78,324). Other significant universities include PU, enrolling 46,184 students, and POKU, enrolling 35,754 students, both located in Bagmati and Koshi. Smaller universities such as KU (22,858 students) and AFU (4,015 students) also contribute to the total enrollment. Several smaller, specialized institutions have fewer students, such as MU (12,194), NSU (4,754), and BPKIHS (1,809). In total, 721,246 students are enrolled across all universities, with Bagmati again having the largest share, totaling 323,625.

Table 3.14 shows student enrollment by university, region (Hill, Mountain, Terai), and gender. TU has the highest enrollment with 531,581 students, most of whom are from the Hill region. Other universities, such as PU and POKU have notable enrollments, particularly in the Hill and Terai regions. The total enrollment across all regions is 721,246 students, with the Hill region having 188,342 males and 216,289 females, the Mountain region with 6,410 males and 11,570 females, and the Terai region with 121,277 males and 177,358 females. The Hill region has the highest student concentration, especially among females.

Table 3.15 presents student enrollment by academic level, ecological belt (Hill, Mountain, Terai), and gender. The majority of students are enrolled at the Bachelor's level, with 634,566 total students-190,476 males and 190,476 females in the Hill region; 5,805 males and 11,094 females in the Mountain region, and 106,332 males and 163,987 females in the Terai region. For Master's programs, there are 82,328 students, with the Hill region again leading (28,740 males and 24,602 females). MPhil, MPhil/PhD and PhD programs have fewer enrollments, with 3,307 students overall, and PGD has a small total of 1,055 students. The overall enrollment totals 721,246 students, with the Hill region having the largest student population, particularly among females.

Table 3.16 outlines student enrollment by province, ecological belt (Hill, Mountain, the Terai), and gender. Bagmati has the largest enrollment (323,625 students), with most in the Hill region. Koshi and Lumbini also have significant numbers, especially in the Terai region, contributing to the overall total of 721,246 students. The Hill region holds the largest share (404,631 students), followed by the Terai region (298,635 students). Gandaki, Karnali, and Sudurpashchim have smaller enrollments, with Karnali showing a strong presence in the Mountain region. The Terai region consistently has a higher proportion of students, especially in provinces like Lumbini and Madhesh.

Sub Metropolitan	48,648	68,380	117,028
Total	316,029	405,217	721,246

Table 3.17 outlines student enrollment by Municipality Type and gender. Metropolitan has the largest enrollment (305,924 students); Municipality and Sub-Metropolitan have enrollments of 266,931 and 117,028, respectively. The Rural Municipality has a smaller enrollment, of 31,363. In all Municipalities, the Female enrollment has dominated over the male.

SECTION-4

GENDER PARITY INDEX

According to United Statistics Division, the Gender Parity Index (GPI) is the ratio of female to male enrollment at a given level of education (female enrollment ÷ male enrollment). A GPI of 1 indicates greater parity, values above 1 indicate higher female enrollment, and values below 1 indicate lower female enrollment. It is a key indicator of gender equality in higher education and is often interpreted alongside the Gross Enrollment Ratio (GER) which measures participation in higher education among the official 18-22 age group.

Table 4.1 Gender parity index (GPI) and share of males and females in the total population

Gender Parity Index (GPI) in Higher Education Enrollment
	Female	Male	Total
Gross Enrollment	405,217	316,029	721,246
Nepal Population (18-22)	1,471,881	1,494,523	2,966,404
Percentage of Enrollment in Population	27.53	21.15
GPI	1.30

The data from Table 4.1 highlights gender dynamics in higher education enrollment in Nepal. Despite males having a slightly larger population in the 18-22 age group (1,494,523 males vs. 1,471,881 females), females outnumber males in higher education enrollment, with 405,217 females enrolled compared to 316,029 males. This indicates that 27.53 % of females in the age group are enrolled in higher education, significantly higher than the 21.15% for males. The Gender Parity Index (GPI) of 1.3 further underscores this trend, indicating that for every male enrolled, there are 1.3 females. These figures suggest a notable shift toward female dominance in higher education enrollment, despite a slightly smaller female population in the relevant age group.

SECTION-5

PASS RATE

The pass rate is calculated using the data provided by the Office of the Controller of Examinations (OCE) and the Dean's offices of the universities. Eighty-nine percent of total students are at the bachelor level of education; TU, the largest university in terms of number of campuses and students, had a pass rate of 47.25 percent in the bachelor, Master, MPhil and PGD programs in year 2024/025.

Table 5.1 Pass Rate of Universities

22	RAHS	95.95
23	MBAHS	80.34
24	PoKAHS	94.59
25	MIHS	73.96

In the above table, the highest pass rates are observed at PAHS and MBUST, achieving a perfect 100%, followed closely by NAMS (98%), PoKAHS (94.59%) and RAHS (95.95%), indicating exceptional academic performance in these institutions, particularly in the medical field. LBU also demonstrates a strong pass rate of 85.99%. Some universities report considerably lower pass rates, such as TU (47.25%) and NSU (53.25%), pointing to potential challenges in academic outcomes. Other institutions, including POKU (56.66%), FWU (39.87%), and MWU (50.17 %), exhibit moderate pass rates, while institutions such as KU (67.72%) and AFU (66.75%) perform relatively better.

Table 6.1 shows the number of graduates across universities in Nepal. TU dominates with 90,618 graduates, contributing 78.08 % of the total, followed by PU (8,149, 7.02%) and POKU (7,880, 6.79%). Smaller contributions come from universities like KU (3.07%), and FWU (1.32%). Other institutions, including AFU, LBU, MU, RJU, PAHS and NAMS, each account for less than 1%. The smallest contributors are RJU (0.06%) and NOU (0.08%). This highlights TU's overwhelming dominance in graduate output compared to other universities.

Table 6.2 provides a breakdown of graduates from various universities by their level of education. Among the 116,112 total graduates, 78.86% completed Bachelor's degrees, followed by 20.26% in Master's programs. MPhil graduates account for 0.52 %, while PGD and PhD graduates contribute only 0.17% and 0.19%, respectively.

TU remains the largest contributor, with 71,378 Bachelor's and 18,515 Master's graduates, and 169 PhDs, accounting for 78.04% of all graduates. PU (7.02%) and POKU (6.79%)

Table 6.3 presents the distribution of 116,112 graduated students across various universities and faculties in Nepal. TU leads significantly with 90,618 graduates, contributing the highest numbers in faculties like Education (16,998), Humanities and Social Sciences (14,866), and Management (43,612). POKU and PU (PU) follow with 7,880 and 8,149 graduates, respectively, surpassing in fields like Management and Engineering. Management emerges as the most popular faculty, with 51,360 graduates, followed by Education with 19,616 graduates and Humanities and Social Sciences with 16,109 graduates. Medicine has 8,246 graduates, primarily from TU, PU, and KU. Smaller faculties such as Buddhist Studies (64 graduates) and Sanskrit (134 graduates) have limited representation, primarily at LBU and NSU. Specialized universities such as AFU focus entirely on Agriculture with 1,100 graduates, while institutions like NAMS and PAHS concentrate on Medicine, producing 303 and 226 graduates, respectively. This data highlights TU's dominance and the specialization of other universities in specific fields.

SECTION-7

GROSS ENROLLMENT RATIO (GER)

“The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), describes ‘Gross Enrollment Ratio’ as a number of students enrolled in a given level of education, regardless of age, expressed as a percentage of the official school-age population corresponding to the same level of education. For the tertiary level, the population used is the 5-year age group starting from the official secondary school graduation age (UNESCO).”

The Gross Enrollment Ratio (GER) gives information on the access and participation of the population of particular age groups in education. In this context, a five-year age range (18-22) is used to determine GER for higher education.

Table 7.1 Higher Education Gross Enrollment Ratio, 2081/082

Student Enrollment, Population and GER	Female	Male	Total
Gross Enrollment	405,217	316,029	721,246
Nepal Population (18-22)	1,471,881	1,494,523	2,966,404

Table 7.1 presents data on the GER for higher education in Nepal. The total enrollment in higher education institutions in Nepal is 721,246 students. The total population in the 18-22 age group is approximately 3 million. This reflects that 27.53% of females in the age group are enrolled in higher education, significantly higher than the 21.15% for males. Based on this data, the GER for higher education in Nepal is estimated at 24.31 %. This suggests that around 24.31% of the population aged 18-22 is enrolled in higher education, including both domestic institutions and foreign-affiliated campuses.

SECTION -8

PUBLIC FINANCING FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Government funding for universities is primarily channeled through the UGC, while funding for medical academics is provided through the Ministry of Health and Population. In addition, scholarships, operational grants and other financial support for medical educational institutions channeled directly to HEIs through the Medical Education Commission (MEC).

In this context, in FY 2024/25 the total education budget of NRS. 2037449 thousand, only NRS. 214567 thousand was allocated to higher education representing 10.53 % of the total education budget and 1.09 % of the national budget.

SECTION-9

TEACHERS IN HIGHER EDUCATION CONSTITUENT CAMPUSES

- This section provides information on the number of teachers at the universities' constituent campuses, excluding affiliated campuses. The universities have categorized teachers into different levels. The major categories of teachers are presented below:
- Professors
- Readers/Associate Professors
- Assistant Lecturers
- Instructors and others

The variation exists in the teacher category across universities.

Table 9.1 provides a comprehensive breakdown of the number of teachers across various universities and their campuses in Nepal, classified by their academic rank. The total number of teachers in all institutions is 15,401, with the majority being Lecturers (7,101) and Readers (3,100). TU has the highest number of teachers, totaling 7,938 with a significant portion in the Lecturer and Reader categories. Other institutions such as MWU and FWU have substantial numbers of faculty, including Assistant Lecturers, Instructors, Professors, and Readers. Institutions like GU and KAHS have fewer faculty members, with MBUST having only 10 Lecturers. Some universities, such as LTU and MAU, show minimal data.

SECTION 10

STUDENT TEACHER RATIOS

Student-Teacher ratio (STR) measures the average number of students per teacher. It is calculated by the total number of students divided by the total number of teachers visiting the campuses.

Table 10.1 Student -Teacher ratio of different universities and medical academies (Between constituent campuses students and Teachers)

23	MBAHS	357	150	2
24	PoKAHS	90	178	1
25	MIHS	132	122	1

The table highlights the student-teacher ratios at various universities and medical academies, broken down by constituent campus. Among the largest institutions, TU leads with 187,762 students and 7,938 teachers, resulting in a moderate ratio of 24:1. AFU, MU, FWU and KU follow with 3,667, 11,833, 17,992 and 13,203 students, respectively, but MU has a significantly higher ratio of 40:1, indicating limited teacher availability compared to AFU's 40:1.

On the other hand, medical-focused academies like the PAHS, NAMS, MIHS and PoKAHS boast exceptional student-teacher ratios of 1:1, reflecting their emphasis on personalized and intensive training.

Smaller institutions such as MBUST, MU, POKAHS, MIHS and MAU enroll fewer than 150 students, maintaining low student-to-faculty ratios, such as MBUST's 4:1, which indicates a highly specialized focus. Overall, traditional universities with large enrollments tend to have higher ratios, while specialized academies, particularly in the medical field, prioritize lower ratios to enhance student engagement and learning outcomes.

SECTION II

NUMBER OF CAMPUSES IN GIVEN RANGES

In this section, the number of campuses with students in a specified range is shown.

Table II.1 Number of campuses student enrollment in the specified range by types

Private	279	121	201	108	41	4	1
Grand Total	481	269	397	212	95	26	18	13	2

The table shows the distribution of campuses by student enrollment ranges and types. Most campuses (31.71%) have 100 or fewer students, with Private campuses dominating this category, followed by Community and constituent campuses. Overall, the data reveal that among all campuses, the majority (481) have enrollments of 100 or fewer students, indicating a high prevalence of small institutions, particularly among community and private campuses. Constituent campuses, on the other hand, exhibit greater diversity in size, with a few significantly larger institutions, including the two campuses with enrollments exceeding 10,000.

As enrollment size increases, the number of campuses decreases significantly. Mid-sized campuses (201–500 students) account for 26.17%, while only a few campuses (0.13%) have enrollments exceeding 10,000, all of which are constituent. Smaller campuses dominate overall, with private and community campuses concentrated in lower ranges, while larger enrollments are mostly found in constituent campuses.

Brief Description of the Higher Education System of Nepal

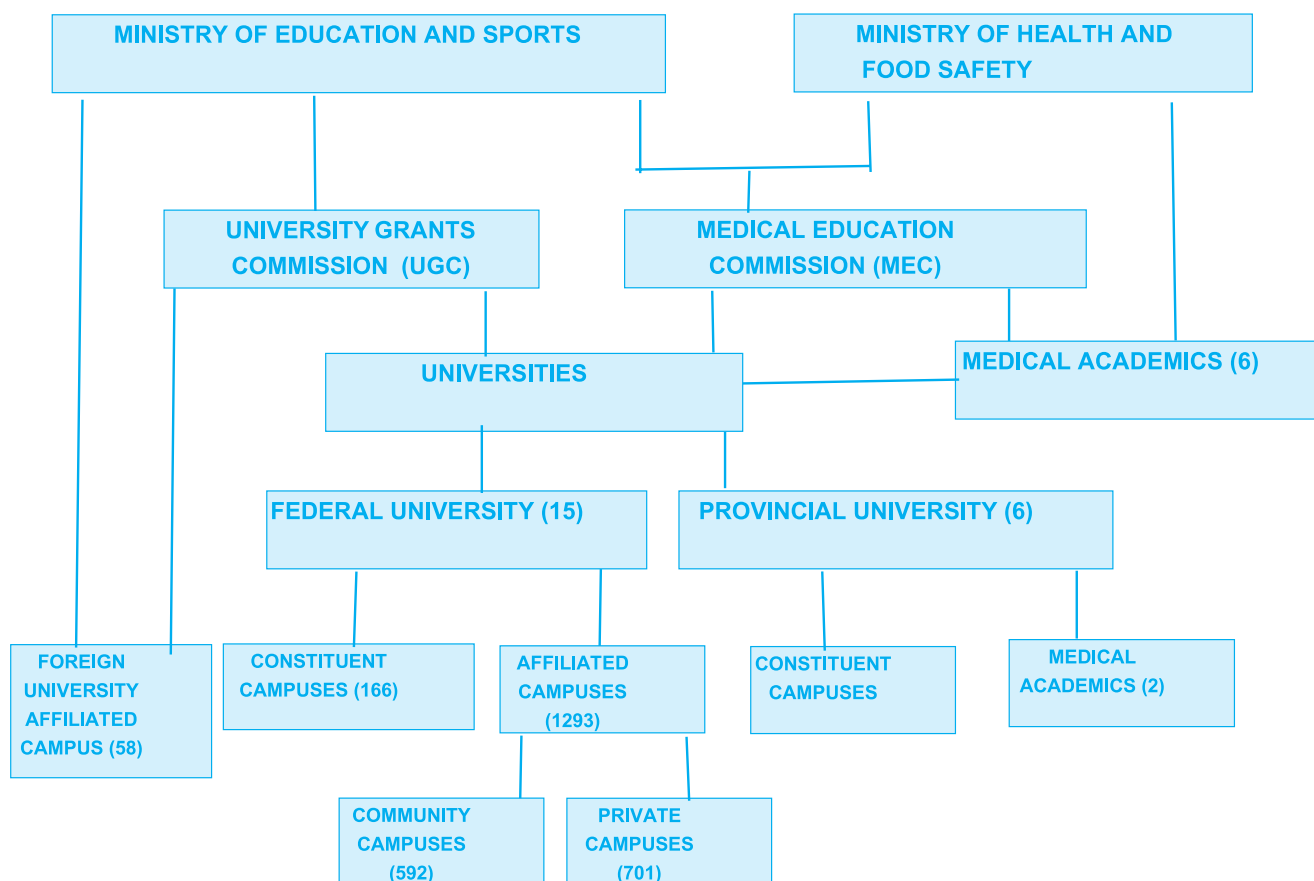

Education beyond the higher secondary level, or the 12th standard is considered Higher education in Nepal. At present, there are 21 universities (15 Federal and 6 Provincial)–TU, NSU, KU, PU, PoK.U, LBU, UJFWU, MU, NOU, RJU, MBUST, VHYAU, UoN, MDCUHS, MTU, GU, MAU, M.U, LTU, BU and eight autonomous academic institutions–NAMS, BPKIHS, PAHS, KAHS, PoKAHS, RAHS, MIHS and MBAHS that offer higher education in Nepal. The universities have two types of campuses: constituent campuses – campuses directly managed and administered including financial management by the concerned university; and affiliated campuses – campuses whose academic programs are affiliated to a university, but managed and administered including financing either by a private individual/organization (private campuses) or by local community stakeholders (community campuses). The academic activities of both types of campuses are governed by the rules and regulations of the concerned university. There are altogether, 1513 campuses in 2024/025 (166 constituent, 592 community and 755 private) with 721,246 students enrolled in different academic programs in higher education.

The campuses follow the courses designed by the affiliating universities and examinations are conducted and processed by the Office of Controller of Examination (OCE) of the respective universities¹. The academic calendar for student enrollment, exam schedules, publication of results, courses offered and class hours may vary from university to university. The institutions of higher education are currently offering courses in science and technology, education, management, social sciences and humanities, law, engineering, forestry, medicine, agriculture and animal sciences, Ayurveda and Sanskrit. They run their academic programs on an annual or semester systems at the bachelor's, master's, M. Phil., and Ph.D. levels, but some universities also offer programs such as post-graduate diploma (PGD). Depending on the stream and subject, bachelor- level programs are of 3 to 5 years' duration, master-level programs of two years' duration and PGD and M. Phil. courses generally of 1½ years' duration.

24. Madan Bhandari Academy of Health Sciences

Madan Bhandari Academy of Health Sciences (MBAHS) was established in 2018 AD as a health academic institution in Hetauda, Makawanpur, Bagmati Province, Nepal.

MBAHS was established by the Provincial Act, 2018 guided by Madan Bhandari's vision of social equity, particularly in health. Recognizing the mammoth growth in demand for higher education, our representatives approved a bill that made it compulsory for a state to establish one Government Medical College as a deemed University.

The establishment of MBAHS is a stunning advance on the revolutionary changes introduced by Bagmati province, which were deemed to be university functions under the direct supervision of the chief minister. This is the first provincial deemed university (academy) in Nepal and holds great importance in light of the ongoing changes in Nepal.

26 Foreign University Affiliated Campuses

Foreign University Affiliated Colleges and Courses in Nepal

Nepal is an academic hub of National and foreign Universities providing affiliations to various Colleges to run Undergraduate and Graduate programs of various faculties. In Nepal there are some reputed colleges with incredible achievements offering popular courses affiliated with foreign universities such as Leeds Beckett University, Lincoln University, Nilai University, London Metropolitan University, Queen Margaret University, EHL Switzerland, Westcliff University, and Salzburg University, from various continents such as America, Europe, and Australia.

The number of Nepalese students seeking foreign degrees is steadily increasing. Many local colleges are now offering programs affiliated with foreign universities to meet their needs. Nepalese students can get a high-quality education similar to that abroad, from the comfort of their homeland. This approach is both affordable and qualitative.

There are 58 colleges affiliated with foreign universities operating in Nepal with about 34,465 students. Foreign university-affiliated colleges are not limited to Kathmandu; they are located across the country. The courses offered by these colleges are also diverse. From Culinary Arts to Information Technology, from Civil and Infrastructure Engineering to Fashion Technology, the types of degrees they offer are exhaustive.

ANNEX 4

Report Preparation

This report is prepared using the data collected from different Office of the Controller of Examination of Universities and their Dean's offices, and the information department of the Universities. Spread Sheets were used to collect data. Emails, phone calls, and personal visits were performed to collect data.

Report preparation process:

- The provided data were preprocessed to clean, make consistent, and remove redundancies. The preprocessed data were converted to the format required by UGC's database schema.
- That data, in the spread sheet format, was uploaded to the database.
- Software is used to generate the summary tables required to prepare the report.
- Those summary tables were then manually analyzed and described, and incorporated into the report.

Definition of Key Terminologies/Indicators

Gender parity index (GPI): Ratio of the female Gross Enrollment to the male Gross Enrollment. A GPI value of 1 indicates parity between genders; a GPI less than 1 indicates a disparity in favor of boys; whereas a GPI greater than 1 indicates a disparity in favor of girls.

$GPI = \text{Female Gross enrollment} / \text{Male Gross enrollment}$

Gross enrollment ratio (GER): Number of students enrolled in tertiary education, regardless of age, expressed as a percentage of the population in the theoretical age group for the same level of education, (18-22) following the secondary school age group.

$GER = \text{Total Enrollment (Bachelor + master level)} / \text{Population (aged 18 to 22)} * 100$

Student/teacher ratio (STR): Average number of students per teacher at the level of education specified in a given academic year.

$STR = \text{Number of students} / \text{Number of teachers}$

Universities: Institutes providing bachelor's or higher-level education, provide affiliation to campuses, make programs, courses, syllabuses, conduct examinations, and publish results.

Constituent campuses: managed directly by the concerned university and are a part and parcel of the university, run the programs developed by the university.

Affiliated campuses: Educational institutions are defined as entities that provide instructional or education-related services to individuals and other educational institutions. It is controlled and managed by a non-governmental organization, and its academic programs are affiliated with a university. The affiliated campuses are further classified into private campuses; those controlled and managed by private organization under the rules and regulation of the concerned university. These types of campuses are privately funded for profit.

Community campuses: campuses that are controlled and managed by community stakeholders under the rules and regulations of the concerned university.

Public expenditure on education: Total current and capital expenditure on education by local, provincial and national governments, including municipalities. It covers public expenditure for both public and private institutions. Current expenditure includes expenditure for goods and services that are consumed within a given year and have to be renewed the following year, such as staff salaries and benefits; contracted or purchased services; other resources, including books and teaching materials; welfare services; and items such as furniture and equipment, minor repairs, fuel, telecommunications, travel, insurance and rent. Capital expenditure includes expenditure for construction, renovation, and major repairs of buildings, as well as the purchase of heavy equipment or vehicles.

General education: Education which is mainly designed to lead participants to a deeper understanding of a subject or group of subjects, especially, but not necessarily, with a view to preparing participants for further (additional) education at the same or a higher level. Successful completion of these programs may or may not provide participants with a labor market-relevant qualification at this level.

Technical education: Education that is mainly designed to lead participants to acquire the practical skills, know-how and understanding necessary for employment in a particular occupation or trade or class of occupations or trades. Successful completion of such programs leads to a labor market-relevant vocational qualification recognized by the competent authorities in the country in which it is obtained.

Enrollment: Number of students enrolled at a given level of education, regardless of age.

Entrance age (official): Age at which students would enter a given program or level of education, assuming they had started at the official entrance age for the lowest level, studied full-time throughout and progressed through the system without repeating or skipping a grade. The theoretical entrance age for a given program or level may differ significantly from the actual or even the most common entrance age.

Equity: In education, the extent to which access and opportunities are just and fair. This implies a reduction of disparities based on gender, poverty, residence, ethnicity, language, and other characteristics.

Graduate: A graduate student is someone who has earned a bachelor's degree and is pursuing additional education in a specific field. In some countries completion occurs upon passing an examination or a series of examinations. In others it occurs after a requisite number of course hours have been accumulated. Sometimes both types of completion occur within a country.

Private enrollment: Number of students enrolled in institutions that are not operated by public authorities but controlled and managed, whether for profit or not, by private bodies such as non-government organizations, religious bodies, special interest groups, foundations or business enterprises.

Community enrollment: Number of students enrolled in institutions that are controlled and managed by public authorities or agencies (national/federal, state/provincial or local), whatever the origins of their financial resources.

Teachers/teaching staff: Number of persons employed full-time or part-time in an official capacity to guide and direct the learning experience of pupils and students, irrespective of their qualifications or the delivery mechanism, i.e. face-to face and/or at a distance.

Campus size: Total number of students enrolled in a campus.

Introduction of the University Grants Commission (UGC)

The University Grants Commission (UGC) was established after the implementation of the multi- university concept in Nepal. The UGC Act was approved by Parliament on November 22, 1993, and began functioning in 1994. UGC is responsible for allocating and disbursing grants to universities and their campuses, regulating their activities for quality assurance, coordinating universities for mutual cooperation, and formulating policies and programs for new universities.

Main Functions of UGC

UGC allocates and disburses grants to universities and higher education institutions to ensure their smooth operation and support academic excellence. UGC is also expected to define the academic standards of higher education and to facilitate good rapport and coordination among universities in the country, thereby encouraging them to cooperate, collaborate, and exchange academic experiences. In line with this spirit and expectation, the UGC Act (1993) mandates the University Grants Commission to carry out the following functions:

- To advise the Government of Nepal on matters related to the establishment of universities.
- To formulate policies regarding the distribution of grants received from various sources to universities.
- To provide grants to universities and to make recommendations to the concerned bodies for additional grants requested by universities.
- To maintain coordination among universities to ensure quality in the academic programs they operate.
- To formulate appropriate programs for the enhancement of academic standards.
- To make necessary arrangements for determining appropriate academic standards in universities.
- To make necessary arrangements for the exchange of scholarships, fellowships, etc., between universities or educational institutions within and outside the Kingdom of Nepal.
- To prepare guidelines and make necessary arrangements regarding credit transfer among universities.
- To carry out activities related to quality assurance and accreditation of universities.
- To determine the equivalence of academic degrees obtained from foreign universities or similar institutions.
- To maintain coordination among universities.
- To submit the financial report of the Commission's activities to the Government of Nepal.
- To perform other functions as prescribed for the fulfillment of the objectives of the Commission.
