MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR GENERAL

It is with great pride and optimism that I present this edition of Nepal Post, which reflects our continued commitment to strengthening and modernizing postal services across the nation.

One of our most significant achievements has been the introduction of a new seven-digit postal coding system, designed to streamline mail sorting processes and enhance the efficiency and speed of mail delivery. In addition, we have restructured our postal network in alignment with Nepal's federal governance system, ensuring greater accessibility, improved service delivery, and operational effectiveness throughout the country. These reforms demonstrate our dedication to meeting the evolving needs of citizens while building a more responsive and efficient postal service.

Nepal Post remains committed to improving delivery times and expanding service coverage to additional countries, thereby strengthening Nepal's connectivity with the global community. Through strategic partnerships, technological advancements, and continuous innovation, we aim to enhance the reliability, efficiency, and reach of our services, further establishing Nepal Post as a trusted and dependable partner within the international postal network.

This publication also highlights several important developments, including technological enhancements, customer-focused initiatives, and service improvements that reflect our vision of a modern, dynamic, and customer-centric postal sector.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all postal employees for their unwavering dedication, professionalism, and hard work. Their commitment has been instrumental in achieving these milestones and continues to strengthen Nepal Post's role as a vital institution serving the nation.

As we move forward, we remain confident in our ability to build an even brighter future marked by sustainable growth, innovation, and excellence in postal services.

HISTORY OF POSTAL SERVICE OF NEPAL

The formal exchange of letters through an organized postal system in Nepal was started in 1935 B.S. (1878 A.D.) marking the early institutionalization of mail services in the country. Initially, personal letters and official communications were delivered through Hulak the traditional postal system operated by Nepal Hulak Ghar.

Historically, the postal system relied heavily on human carriers who physically transported letters and goods across challenging terrains. Two primary categories of Hulak services existed:

- Kagate Hulak: Used for the transmission of official documents and written correspondence ("kagat" meaning paper).
- Thaple Hulak: Used for transporting goods, gifts and even arms and ammunition for the state, royal authorities and military ("thaplo" meaning forehead indicating loads carried physically).

Development of Postal Stamps

Postage stamps were first introduced in Nepal in April 1881 issued as a set of three denominations: one anna, two annas and four annas printed on European paper. It has been 144 years since the Nepal Post, the oldest means of communication, began using postage stamps. The Nepal Post has been printing postage stamps with the aim of introducing the country's original culture, traditions, archaeological, historical heritage, nature and personalities who have contributed to national life in various periods of history to the world.

Postage stamps have played an important role in promoting Nepal's presence in the world through stamps and in promoting tourism by disseminating Nepal's uniqueness. Similarly, postage stamps have also played an important role in promoting social and cultural awareness, sustainable development goals and climate change. Just as the postal service has been an ancient and continuous public service, the use of postage stamps has also been continuous.

Over time the shape, design, and other features of postage stamps are becoming more advanced.

International Integration

Nepal entered the global postal network by becoming a member of the Universal Postal Union on 11 October 1956 during the Ottawa Congress. This marked a significant milestone in integrating Nepal's postal system with international standards.

Subsequently:

- Nepal signed the UPU Parcel Post Agreement in 1974
- Became a member of the Asian-Pacific Postal Union in 1982

Following the restoration of multiparty democracy in 1990, the Government introduced the National Communication Policy (1992) which emphasized the need for an autonomous and efficient postal authority capable of operating in a globalized and competitive environment.

Changing Communication Landscape

The rapid advancement of modern communication technologies has significantly transformed the communication sector. Traditional letter-writing has declined sharply directly impacting conventional postal services.

As a response, Nepal Post has diversified its operations by introducing Express Mail Service (EMS) for both domestic and international markets. However, the decline in traditional mail volume has necessitated a broader transformation strategy.

Challenges and Need for Transformation

Despite its historical legacy and nationwide network, Nepal Post faces critical challenges:

- Utmost integration of modern Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs)
- Increase mail business
- Fulfilling customer's expectations for speed, reliability and digital services
- Compete with private courier and logistics providers with limited resource.

The sustainability of Nepal Post depends on its ability to adapt, innovate and modernize its operational framework.

Strategic Vision and Future Direction

Aligned with global postal reforms and initiatives such as UPU Vision 2022, Nepal Post must transition towards a more dynamic and technology-driven organization.

Key strategic priorities include:

- Digital Transformation: Expanding services into digital platforms and e-commerce logistics
- Innovation in Services: Developing new customer-oriented products and solutions
- Capacity Building: Enhancing human resource skills and technological capabilities
- Regulatory Reform: Establishing supportive legal and policy frameworks
- Network Integration: Building a seamless physical and digital postal network

Additionally, effective collaboration with stakeholders such as customs authorities, transport operators and international logistics partners will be essential to facilitate cross-border e-commerce.

Role in National Development

Globally postal services are increasingly recognized as key infrastructure for inclusive development. Leveraging its extensive network, Nepal Post can play a transformative role in:

- Economic Inclusion: Supporting micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs)
- Financial Inclusion: Reaching unbanked and underserved populations
- Digital Inclusion: Bridging the digital divide across rural and remote areas

POST OFFICE BUILDINGS

Department of Postal Service, General Post Office, Postal Training Center, Postal Directorate offices and District Post Offices (DPOs) have their own buildings. Most of the Post Offices in local levels and Postal Counters are located in rented or other government buildings. However, most of the buildings have to be renovated and make customer friendly to deliver quality postal service.

In order to enhance the operation and management of Nepal Post effectively, Department of Urban Development and Building Construction is constructing multi-purpose and multi-facility seven-floor building in Kathmandu.

The system assigns unique postal codes to postal offices and local administrative areas across the country, supporting standardized addressing and modern postal operations.

Benefits

- Enhances the speed and accuracy of mail and parcel delivery.
- Supports e-commerce, logistics, and digital postal services.
- Facilitates efficient mail sorting and routing.
- Improves address identification and customer convenience.
- Strengthens national communication and connectivity infrastructure.

Implementation Status

During 2025, Nepal Post continued the implementation and expansion of the Postal Code System in line with the country's new administrative structure. Postal codes have been assigned to postal offices and local levels nationwide, providing a standardized addressing system to support current and future postal, governmental, and commercial services. For more details see on annex-4.

POSTAL INTERNAL TRACKING SYSTEM

Introduction

Postal tracking system has revolutionized global Postal mails and logistics by providing real-time visibility, accountability, and improved customer satisfaction. The global postal system, once characterized by opaque and delayed service, has undergone a technological transformation in the past few decades. Central to this evolution is the postal tracking system, which allows users to monitor the journey of mail and parcels from dispatch to delivery. As digital commerce and international trade expand, the need for reliable, transparent and efficient postal services has intensified.

Historical Background and Evolution

Initially, postal tracking relied on manual logs and stamped delivery cards. The introduction of barcodes in the 1990s marked a major leap, enabling semi-automated tracking. Today's systems integrate GPS, IoT sensors, and mobile networks to provide near-instantaneous updates. The UPU (Universal Postal Union) has also played a pivotal role in standardizing international postal data exchanges. At present, Nepal post has been using various UPU based softwares including ips.post, cds.post, GCSS, i-Care System and RAIS to provide the comprehensive real time postal tracking information. Besides, Nepal Post developed domestic software - PITS (Postal Internal Tracking System) in 2016 for the tracking and tracing of the postal mails in domestic channel.

System Architecture and Workflow

A modern postal tracking system typically involves:

- Barcode/RFID Generation: Each item is tagged with a unique identifier.
- Scanning at Checkpoints: Items are scanned at collection, sorting centers, transit points, and final delivery.
- Data Integration and Updates: Information is uploaded to centralized servers, often cloud-based, which update customer-facing platforms.
- Notification Services: Customers receive SMS, email or app-based updates on package status.

Key technologies include:

- RFID and Barcode Systems,
- GPS-enabled Delivery Devices,
- Cloud Computing,
- Database Management Systems,
- Mobile Applications for End-Users and Delivery Agents.

Benefits and Impact

- Transparency: Real-time updates increase customer confidence.
- Operational Efficiency: Automated tracking reduces errors and resource use.
- Dispute Resolution: Data logs help resolve delivery issues quickly.
- Analytics: Companies use tracking data to optimize routes, predict delays and improve service.

Challenges

Despite its benefits, the system faces several challenges:

- Infrastructure Gaps: Rural and underdeveloped regions lack the necessary technology.
- Data Privacy and Security: Increasing digitization demands robust cybersecurity protocols.
- Interoperability: Cross-border shipments require cooperation among diverse postal systems.

Emerging Trends and Future Directions

- Blockchain Integration: Ensures tamper-proof tracking logs.
- AI and Machine Learning: Enhances predictive tracking, automates delay forecasting, and improves customer interaction.
- Drones and Autonomous Vehicles: Could further improve last-mile delivery with integrated tracking.
- Sustainability Tracking: Systems may soon include carbon footprint metrics per package route.

Conclusion

The postal tracking system is a linchpin in the modern postal chain. As global commerce evolves, so too must the technological infrastructure that supports it. Future innovations will need to address scalability, security and sustainability while continuing to prioritize user-centric design.

- Ensure data capture and EDI transmission using the available systems and tools.
- Improve electronic data provision and quality.
- Receive certification in the areas of quality management addressing and postal security.
- Enhance the use of performance monitoring and reporting systems and tools.
- Improve quality of service.
- Improve supply chain integration for e-commerce development.

Main Expected Outcomes by 2025

- Increased end-to-end measurability.
- Maximized end-to-end mail visibility.
- Improved end-to-end performance for letter post items and parcels. Improved on-time end-to-end service performance rate for EMS. Reduced customs and transport average times.

Nepal post has duly signed the ORE Roadmap and Action plan in December, 2022. In line with all ORE 3 project activities, the 'Process Review on site' was successfully conducted by IB team, lead by Mr. Chokri Ellili, Head of Quality Improvement Programme, UPU and Mr. Anucha Soonglertsongpha, ORE Regional Project Facilitator, APPU during the visit in 10-14 December, 2018. The delegates visited all the mail flow process thoroughly in Office of Exchange, GPO, Kathmandu and Bhaktapur District Post Office and conducted a joint meeting with Customs Department and Airlines for seamless and secure customs and transport. The kick-off and debriefing meeting with IB team was held in Postal Service Department in presence of the then Director General Mr. Ananda Ram Regmi and Director General Mr. Devi Prasad Gnawali. Migration from IPS Light to IPS.Post is done in 2020 under this project.

POSTAL TRAINING CENTRE

The centre is fundamentally designed to strengthen human resources in Nepal's postal sector focusing on efficiency, service quality and professional development.
