Press Release

The Embassy of Nepal in Washington, D.C. hosted a reception this evening to mark the 262nd Nepali Army Day. The event was attended by Dr. Andrew Byers, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for South and Southeast Asia; H.E. Mr. Lok Darshan Regmi, Ambassador of Nepal to the United States; and over 100 guests from various sectors, including Military/Defense Attachés and members of the Nepali diaspora.

In his address, Ambassador Regmi highlighted the role of the Nepali Army in safeguarding and promoting Nepal's national interests. While highlighting Nepal-US relations and cooperation, he also expressed gratitude to the U.S. Army for its continuous support and cooperation with the Nepali Army.

Similarly, Deputy Assistant Secretary Dr. Andrew Byers, the event's chief guest, expressed his appreciation for the longstanding relationship between the Nepali Army and the U.S. Army. He also commended the Nepali Army's contributions to global peace through its participation in various peacekeeping missions.

Earlier, in his welcoming remarks, Military Attaché Colonel Purna Prasad Dhakal reflected on the remarkable history of the Nepali Army. He emphasized its significant contributions in protecting Nepal during critical periods.
